Kentucky's Monument to of justice over injustice, of humanity Her Soldier Dead.

THE FIRST OF ITS KIND.

The Eloquent Address of Governor Union and Confederate.

[By Associated Press to The Independent.]

CHATTANOOGA, May 3.—The Kentucky monument to the memory of the men who wore the blue and the gray in the great war of the rebellion, w s dedicated today with imposing ceremonies. Miss Bradley, daughter of the governor of the state, unveiled the monument. There was a grand parade, with bands of music, and numerous addresses. Governor Bradley spoke as follows:

"Many monuments have been erected upon battlefields of this republic, but it has remained for Kentucky to be the food of her family. first of all the states, with tender and motherly devotion, to erect a blended monument to all her sons-a monument that carries with it and upon it complete reconciliation of all contending passions.

"This shaft is dedicated, not alone to those who died on this and surrounding fields, but to the gallant survivors who, when the frowning clouds of war were dispelled by the bright sunshine of peace, returned to their homes to repair broken fortunes, and are today numbered among the best and most distinguished sons of the commonwealth.

"Kentucky has evinced no partiality in this evidence of loving remembrance. It carries with it no heart-burning, no jealousy, no invidious distinction. It is not an emblem of honor to the victor equal tribute to the worth of all. In future, the descendants of chivalrous Confederates may proudly gaze upon it, realizing that the state has honored their ancestors, and that, although their cause was lost, their heroism is revered and their memories perpetuated. And the the gallant deeds of their illustricus ancestors, who preserved the nation from destruction. May it endure forever, standing guard over victor and vanquished, with the statue that surmounts it, in one hand holding the torch of liberty shedding abroad its benign rays; in the other grasping the sword, emblematical of the strength of one people, ready and anxious at all times to uphold the integrity of one country, and to drive, wounded and bleeding, from its shores any insolent foe that shall ever dare invade them.

"And now, after the mists of prejuwe are enabled to see the bright stars of truth and reason which shine beyond, all can plainly divine the sentiments which inspired the actors in that bloody

"That the Union should have been preserved and slavery abolished, all are ready to concede. That the victors won ed, were inspired by sincere devotion to principles conscientiously believed to be just; that they fought with valor, equalled alone by those who opposed them, but never surpassed, and their herioc bravery and suffering entitle them to the admiration of all mankind.

"There could be no more convincing evidence of the righteous termination of that great struggle than the present Pretty American Dimities grandeur and power of the Republictoday the richest nation on earth, the 1900.

"No sane man would revive the institution of slavery, for the heroic blocd Cotton Coverts for skirts 121, of our negro troops has obliterated every lingering regret of the master, and proclaimed, in unmistakable language. that the liberty of 1899 is better than the slavery of 1861.

"The monument dedicated today may, in the rush of years, crumble and fall Other choice white goods for into dust, but around the summits of gathering mists, shall remain forever the Mormon Missionaries will Try to Con-Plain and fancy white and memories of these historic fields, and in and strength and patriotism, which will perpetuate, through all coming time,

The three ramphlets are those which have the following titles: "Crimmal Aggression by Whom? "The Cost of a National Crime" and "The Hell of War and Its Penalties." These, unless something should develop to necessitate furthe postal officials by the war department, whose authorities were greatly exercised with a suggestion that some action be taken. It is thought that there is little possibility of any of these publications getting past the San Francisco office, but if a few should, the military authorities in the Pailippines will promptly suppress them. Postmaster | General Emory Smith made this state-

"These pamphlets actually incite to mutiny, and it would be utterly unjustifiable to permit their circulation among the soldiers in the Philippines. Their circulation is a movement to induce the soldiers to disobey orders and in effect to embarrass and resist the government in whose services they are engaged. Their circulation, except in the mails for the Philippines, is not interfered with, because in being sent to Manila they are destined for soldiers fighting our battles, but in this country the effort to incite to mutiny could have no result. Not only are they designed to own right, and names her as executrix' incite to mutiny the American soldiers of the estate. The will was dated Febru-, in these islands, but also to foment and encourage insurrection on the part of the Filipinos themselves.

"Such seditions literature as that now stopped might have an effect on the forces we now are dealing with that would be incalculably to their advantage and certainly would tend to stimulate and strengthen the opposition. The law covering the case is ample. What action might be taken—and the offense is of the gravest character—is not to be discussed. I do not believe there is any intention to prosecute Mr. Atkinson as the matter now stands. The authority to do so, however, is plain. He not only attacks the president and the government in the most virulent language and disputes the national policy, but also calls on the American troops to defy the government. Certainly this government is empowered to stop or check, as it sees fit, the circulation of these seditious publications."

Boston, May 3.—Hon, Edward Atkinson, the president of the Anti-Imperialist League of this city, was shown the Washington dispatch stating that the postmaster general had directed that certain pamphlets prepared by Mr. Atkinson be taken from the mails to Manila. Mr. Atkinson said he had re-ceived no notification from Washington about the matter. He explained that the documents were compilations of facts and figures taken from the debates in the national house and senate and calling attention to points overlooked in

"By action of the senate," Mr. Atkinson continued. "these compilations were published as senate documents, and they are now public documents of the United States. Therefore any action taken towards keeping them out of the mails would imply that congressional records and official documents of the United States are unsuitable to be sent to officers of the volunteer regiments now in Manila, whose terms of service have expired and whose return Annual Meeting General Assembly to this country is demanded by officials Cumberland Presbyterian Church at of certain states, who say the men are entitled to discharge. A Brilliant Sight.

Apropos of the study of the effects of alcohol in the public schools the School Bulletin of Syracuse relates the following:

"Standing on top of a high hill and looking at a gorgeous sunset, a mother asked of her little daughter, 'What does that remind you of:'

"'O, I know'" cried the girl clapping her hands. It looks just like a drunkard's stomach.'

If your cow has caked udder, or garget, as some term it, give saltpeter with salt as above; it has always been known that it has cured this disorder in a short time: the best cows are often ruined by this plague from hot weather and high feed. It is so common that it is ones duty to divulge this sure cure, if applied in season and faithfully followed out.

EACH A ROUGH RIDER

WHY OUR REGULAR ARMY OFFICERS ARE ALL SKILLED HORSEMEN.

Their Proficiency Has Been Acquired Point Military Academy.

Every army officer who is a graduate of West Point is a first class horseman. He can ride with the roughest of the rough riders. He is as much at home in the saddle as in an easy chair. He can ride hurdles, do without stirrups or saddle and vault to the back of a galloping horse with the skill of a circus rider.

This is because Uncle Sam insists that the men who are sent out to command his soldiers shall have a thorough training in horsemanship. This training begins during the cadet's second year, and it ends with the "all over" cavalry charge which is a feature of the graduating exercises.

No matter if the cadet who timidly climbs into the saddle has never been on a horse's back before, when be has gone through the course that is taught in the long riding hall he is capable of managing a horse under any circum-

As a matter of fact, there is nothing wonderful about it. Given a young and vigorous fellow, quick witted and active limbed, put a gray jacket on him and let him buffet for three years with equine fate in the riding school of the Military academy, and he cannot help but be a rider.

There are degrees of ability there as els where; not every West Point cadet is "a born cavairyman." Some feel most secure with their feet on the ground. But there a vigorous, sometimes almost ruthless, system of instruction is encountered. No lapses are permitted. Failure to perform a certain feat argues only a personal shortcoming

A WEST POINT CAVALRY "STUNT" and not that the feat is unduly difficult. The faint hearted must do the things required. Every mounted exercise is an examination as to proficiency. The standard set is attained by all and surpassed by many.

Mastery of any art does not come ready made to one's hand, and the cadet riding school is an attestation of the fact. The ability to properly bestride a horse is acquired only by progressive and painful degrees.

It is not such instruction as the civilian youngster would get at the ordinary riding academy, nor such practice as the ordinary youth favored with the possession of a good saddle horse would get At West Point there is a high standard concerning equestrianship as well as other things. There are traditions to be maintained. The cadet must not only learn to "walk like a West Pointer," but to "ride like a West Pointer."

During the first year no circus feats are attempted, but the cadets are drilled week after week in the primary principles of good horsemanship until they have a groundwork of knowledge upon which may be built any sort of tower of It is during the second year of his riding that the cadet begins to rival the tight clad heroes of the sawdust arena. He practices burdle jumping, vaulting and all manner of intricate cavalry

Mounted wrestling is one of the exercises which are calculated to make a good horseman. Each cadet selects an opponent in an opposite squad. The two come together, grasp any hold they can secure and tug and pull in the attempt to unseat each other. Two good riders may wrestle all day with no result but fatigue. But some one who is a shade poorer on the horse is conquered and pulled off roughly, fore or aft, in any way by which victory can be achieved. Then there is what is known as "the nursuit." One cadet, usually a very good rider, moves out. A half dozen others follow. They overtake him or bead him off at the corners and, laying violent hands upon him, attempt to

It is such work as this that brings perfection, and it is this perfection which inspires the regular cavalryman with faith in the superior officer who can lead a charge with that dash and confidence which all of our army officers display when in the saddle.

INDIAN FRIENDSHIP.

How Western Railroads Maintain the Red Man's Good Will. [Special Correspondence]

GREAT FALLS. Mon., April 25. - As the traveler passes through the big by Long Training and Hard Knocks | Sionx reservation in Montana on the In the Riding Hall of the West | Overland express he is impressed with the uniform respect with which the Indians treat everybody connected with the railroad.

"The Indian is no fool," said a Great Northern official with whom I discussed the subject. "He knows when he is well treated and seldom expects anything unreasonable. This railroad has never knowingly done an Indian a wrong. We paid liberally for the right to cross the reservation, and any differences that arise are treated with consideration. We never try to impose upon the Indians in any way, not do we permit them to impose upon us. When trains first began to run through the reservation, a number of ponies were killed by accident. We promptly paid for them, and the owners were satisfied. A few cunning Sionx thought they saw in the situation an opportunity to make money and drove their ponies on the track to be killed and paid for. We discovered the trick and appealed to the chief, who promptly suppressed the iniquity. This is the nearest approach to a misunderstanding that we have had,"

A good story is told of a big chief who wanted to trade 100 ponies for a locomotive. He did not appreciate the utility of the track and thought be could dash over the prairies at will with the iron horse. It took some time and patience to get the idea out of the chief's bead, but he finally relented. It was, however, a great disappointment.

Another story is connected with payment for the right of way through the reservation. It may not be quite accurate in letter, but is true in spirit. The through express from St. Paul to Helena had not been running long when a strange incident happened out on the prairie.

A solitary Indian, feathered in stately fashion and mounted on a horse of rare beauty, occupied a conspicuous position beside the track, and gave the engineer a friendly signal to stop. Off went the steam and a gentle touch of long to gather a nucleus for his church the air brake brought the long train to a standstill.

The Author of "In His Steps," of Which Millions of Copies liave Been Sold-Pirst Delivered as a Series of

A Kansas minister is the author of the book which has had the largest sale If any publication issued within the last two years. Many people who pride themselves on "keeping up" with the literature of the day will be surprised to find that the name of the author and the title of his book are alike unknown to them. ""In His Steps. or, What Would Jesus Do?" is the book. The man who wrote it is Rev. Henry M. Sheldon, a Congregational minister of Topeka.

No, the book has not been mentioned by the reviewers. You will find it on the lists of no popular publishers. It is not talked about in so called "literary circles." The Rev. Mr. Sheldon is not one of the recognized lights of literature. His name is not widely known Even in Topeka not one man in ten knows him by sight.

Yet during the last year there have been sold millions of copies of "In His Steps." Not only in the United States, but especially in England, has the sale of this book been phenomenal Edition after edition has been exhausted, and still the presses are running to supply the demand. In this country the popularity of the volume is spreading like wildfire The prospects are that before another year "In His Steps" will be the most talked about thook that has been published for a generation

As its title implies, "In His Steps" is a religious novel. In fact, it can hardly be called a nevel. It is more like an elaborated tract. Yet there is a fascination to the story which it tells that holds. It seems to have struck a human

Twelve years ago the Rev. Mr. Sheldon, then a young man fresh from his New England college, went to Topeka and organized the Central Congrega-

A MAN AND HIS BOOK. TOPEKA MINISTER WHOSE RELIGIOUS NOVEL HAS STIRRED ALL ENGLAND. FOR BLOOD POISON.

Beware of the Doctors' Patchwork; You Can Cure Yourself at Home.

There is not the slightest doubt that the doctors do more harm than good in treating Contagious Blood Poison; many victims of this loathsome disease would be much better off to-day if they had never allowed them-selves to be dosed on mercury and potash, the only remedies which the doctors ever give for blood poison.

The doctors are wholly unable to get rid of this vile poison, and only attempt to heal up the outward appearance of the disease—the sores and eruptions. This they do by driving the poison into the system, and endeavor to keep it shut in with their constant doses of potasi. and mercury. The mouth and throat and other delicate parts then preak out into sores, and the fight is continued indefinitely, the drugs doing the system more damage than the disease itself.

Mr. H L Myers, 100 Mulberry St., Newark. N. J. says: "I had spent a hundred dollars with the doctors, when I realized that they could do me no good. I had large spots all over my brdy, and these soon broke out into running sores, and I endured all the suffering which this vile disease produces. I decided to try S S. S. as a last resort, and was soon greatly improved. I followed closely your 'Directions for Self-Treatment,' and the large splotches on my chest began to grow paler and smaller, and before long disappeared entirely. The free-trade newspapers which are triumphantly pointing to the superiority of the foreign over the American wool market as a result of the enactment of the Dingley tariff law, may well make the most of their shallow argument as the woolen industries are already beginning to recover from the disastrous effects of the Wilson-Gorman law. Added to the fact that a great surplus of wool was imported into the country under the free wool provisions of that law, the American woolen industry has suffered from another evil which resulted from its operations. EXERCISES AT THE ARMORY

A Programme Consisting of Patriotic Music and Addresses by Eloquent Speakers is Enjoyed by a Large Audience on Monday Evening.

A good-sized audience at the Armory on Monday evening enjoyed the patriotic celebration arranged by Mayor Wise in commemoration of the first anniversary of Admiral Dewey's victory in Manila bay. HOW MANY ARE TRUE? Unverified Reports Concerning the Rolling Mill.

The plant of the Corns Iron and Steel Company has not been in operation since Saturday, and a report to the effect that the suspension is due to the property having passed into the hands of the trust is current. Manager J. C. Corns has been absent from the city for two days, however, so the story cannot be verified. Another report is that Mr. Corns went to Cleveland on Monday to close the transaction. Persons connected with the concern say they are as much in the dark as the public-they do not know why the suspension was ordered and do not know whether the mill is now the property of the trust or whether it ever will be. They and many others do know, nevertheless, that representatives of the combine recently visited the mill. The latest rumor and probably the one with the least foundation is that preparations are now being made to have the machinery of the works shipped away. The exact state of affairs will not be known until The only persons who refused to sign Mr. Corns returns to Massillon.

The name of A. C. Strong of Alliance, is announced as a candidate for state representative, subject to the decision of the Republican primary election. Mr. Strong is one of the best known Republicans in the eastern end of the county, and his friends predict that he will show unusual strength at the polls.

Francis S. Kuhn was today removed to the Massillon state hospital. Mr. Kuhn became suddenly insane one day last week, and would have thrown himself under the wheels of a train but for the interference of Charles Chidester, who was with him at the time. He has a family, who reside in Duncan street. All his life he has been sober and industrious. Religion turned his brain.

THE W. & L. E.

The Company Now Out of Speculators' Hands.

GREAT IMPROVEMENTS.

The Road to be Double Tracked Between Steubenville and Wheeling-Preparing for Centennial Business at Toledo.

The election of Robert Blickensderfer as president of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railway marks the opening of a new epoch in the history of the property. In the reorganization, large blocks of the Wheeling stock changed hands, and the WILL SEND A DECISION, control of the property has shifted from the hands of speculators to investors.

Colonel Myron T. Herrick, of Cleveland, heads the syndicate which is now in control of the property, and his excellent record as president of the Society Give an Opinion as to Which Side is for Savings of Cleveland, is a guarantee as to the excellence of the future financial policy of the Wheeling. Myron T. Herrick is not a broker or a speculator, and would not allow his name to be connected with the property if it were not to be held as an investment.

Before the election Mr. Herrick declared himself in favor of Robert Blickensderfer as president of the property, thus designating him as the representative of the investors' syndicate and exponent of the new policy of the road.

The new stockholders, it is said, are composed more largely of Ohio capitalsts, although there are still large holdings in New York. Eastern capitalists may still be in the majority, but never did there seem to be such evidence of Obio influence.

The policy of the company appears to be the development of a system of coal lines. The absorption of the Cleveland. Canton & Southern-is assured. This, it is expected, will be consummated this week. It may not be that soon, but only the details of the consolidation remain to be arranged. As far as the finances are concerned, the two properties are one now. They are controlled by the same interests.

When the consolidation takes place there will be some changes in the directorship of the Wheeling & Lake Erie company. New names will be added to the board, which will represent some of the strongest concerns in Ohio and New York. Myron T. Herrick will be in the new board and it is announced on Wall street that he is to be chairman of the executive committee. Mr. Herrick will then bear about the same relation to the consolidated Wheeling and C., C. & S. as Wm. K. Vandetbilt did to the Lake Shore and Chauncey Depew bears to the N. Y. Central. He will finance the Wheeling, but he will not be identified with the active management and operations of the property.

Upon the shoulders of President Blickensderfer will be laid the duties and responsibilities of the management. He begins a career not unlike that of President Newell when the latter took charge of the Lake Shore. The extensive improvemeats which were begun under the receivership will be continued. Provis ions will be made for the setting aside of money for this purpose, and if the plans as outlined by President Blickenderfer, and approved by the owners, are carried out, in physical condition the Wheeling will take a place in the front rank of north and south roads.

But the future plans of the new company include more than a general upbuilding of the system. The road is to to be employed on a suburban-line at the lower end. New industrial tracks The territory through which the Wheeling extends is rapidly developing, and with the advancement.

Not the least among the problems which confront the Wheeling is the centennial business at Toledo. The Wheeling tracks extend to the centennial grounds, and even now President Blickensderfer is formulating plans to handle sillou friends. this traffic. New yard room will be in demand for this business, and one of the probabilities is a double track for the Toledo Belt Line - Toledo Blade.

mayor of Chicago, is the sixth in succession from father to son to bear the name. His great-great-grandfather was a prominent Virginian and a brother of Benjamin Harrison, a signer of the Declaration of Independence and father of President William Henry Harrison.

The young mayor, who has hardly turned 40, is in many respects like his father, whose friends were wont to call "Chicago's greatest mayor," and has inherited many of the sterling qualities of the latter, though lacking somewhat of that masterly energy and power in shaping affairs to his own ends and in the tactful leadership and control of men which made the father one of the most conspicuous figures in the history of the metropolis of the middle west, and whose assassination while mayor, during the closing days of the World's fair, fell like a pall over the city and shocked the whole country.

Mr. Harrison is a man of many fads and fancies as well as varied accomplishments. He is a student and linguist and speaks French and German fluently and reads the Greek and Latin classics in the original, is a smooth and graceful writer and a speaker of no little force, an amateur photographer and chemist, a traveler and collector of curios, ceramics and bric-a-brac, a disciple of Nimrod and Izaak Walton and an entousiastic wheelman and devotee of outdoor sports.

In his elegant home on Schiller street, surrounded by his wife and children, to whom he is intensely devoted, and amid his books, of which he has over 4.000 volumes, his rare collection of china, decorated pottery and curios, his many fine paintings, gathered from the best studies, and his photographs taken by his own camera in various parts of ! the world. Mr. Harrison "took to the wheel" only a few years ago, but has become an enthusiastic cyclist. He is neither a 'scorcher' nor a "butterfly," or houlevard rider, but delights in taking long plunges out of the city, over country roads and past green meadows, fragrant orchards, waving cornfields and overhanging trees. He has a local reputation as a century rider, having made 12 such trips in one season recently. While holding that wheelmen should be regardful of the rights of others, Mr. Harrison insists that their rights should be respected and that teams should give half the road in passing.

LIQUID AIR.

Some of Many Interesting Feats Performed by This New Power. [Special Correspondence.]

New York, April 24.—If you put'a it on the fire the water begins to boil and passes off into the air in the form of steam. Steam is a gas and so is air. There are but three known conditions which a substance can assume-anything must be either a solid, a liquid or a gas. It is simply a matter of temperature or rather the arrangement of molecules. Water at or below 32 degrees becomes a solid. Between that point and 212 degrees above zero water remains a liquid. At 212 degrees above zero water becomes a gas. So when air is compressed and cooled it becomes a liquid. Carter Henry Harrison, the present The point at which air liquefies is 312 degrees below zero.

Air, when in a liquid state, closely resembles water. It is colorless. Liquefied air should be handled very carefully. It can be poured out in a dipper, but on account of its extreme cold prolonged contact is dangerous. If a hand is thrust into liquid air and quickly withdrawn, no harm is done. The sensation is like that of burning.

Powerful machinery is required to liquefy air. Charles E. Tripler of this city, who has for many years experimented in this line, claims that he can liquefy air at a cost of 25 cents per gallon. Some years ago it cost Professor Demar over $500 to manufacture a pint of liquid air. Mr. Tripler uses a steam engine to first compress the air. The air in this stage of the process must be cooled and then passed to the liquefier. In the liquefier part of the air is allowed to enter an inner pipe, which is inclosed in the pipe through which the air is passing. The air in the larger

REFORMERS TO MEET

THE NATIONAL SOCIAL AND POLITI CAL CONFERENCE IN BUFFALO.

Men and Women of Widely Divergent Views Will Attend With the Common Purpose of Accomplishing Various Reforms.

[Special Correspondence.]

BUFFALO, April 25.—The Queen City of the Lakes has had many great conventions, political and otherwise, but I doubt if Buffalo has ever welcomed a gathering of more distinguished people than will attend the national, social and political conference which meets here on June 28, continuing until the close of July 4. It will be a meeting of social and political reformers of widely divergent views, coming from all parts of the country, the aim being, as indicated in the conference call signed by the committee of seventy-one, "to bring about a better understanding and acquaintance, to study methods, to gain sympathy and respect of outsiders and to keep all reformers-even those who consider other methods than their own as unwise-in touch with one another." Among the names attached to the call and who will undoubtedly be present are Dr. Lyman Albott, New York; Dr. Benjamin Fay Mills, Boston; Hazen S. Pingree, governor of Michigan; William V. Allen, United States senator from Nebraska; Henry Carter Adams, professor of political economy of the University of Michigan; Dr. E. Benjamin Andrews, superintendent of Chicago public schools; Miss Jane Addams, Huli House, Chicago; Eugene V. Debs, champion of social democracy: Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson, Booker T. Washington, and George Fred Williams. These are but a few of the many notable names, but they indicate the comprehensive character and broad scope of the conference.

Preparations for the reception of the distinguished guests and their entertainment are already fairly under way, this work being in the hands of Charles B. Matthews of this city. Mr. Matthews is, by the way, a thorough believer in social and political reforms and a man of pronounced views. He is a successful man of affairs and is extensively engaged in the oil business. For years be has been combating the Standard Oil company, and of all those who have risen to "smite the octopus" he is one little water into a teakettle and place of the very few who have not succumbed to the power of the monopoly.

Mr. Matthews says the preliminary work of the conference is progressing favorably, though it is yet too early to settle many of the details. It is said that the Genesee House will be the headquarters, though those in attendance will probably fill more than one of Buffalo's leading botels. It was at first proposed to limit the attendance to 400, but so many prominent people have expressed their sympathy with the movement that the number present will doubtless exceed that figure.

It will not be a public conference, but will be composed entirely of those who are especially invited, and no will be admitted to the sessions who is without a properly signed credential. While the sessions will be behind closed doors, the public will not be left wholly in the dark as to the sayings and doings of the conference. A thoroughly trained journalist, who is also a social reformer of prominence, Joseph R. Buchanan, the chairman of the committee on publicity, will give out to the press such matter as it is deemed advisable to make public.

The secretary of the conference, upon whom the greater part of the preliminary work has devolved, is Eltweed Pomeroy of Newark, N. J. Mr. Pomeroy is widely known as an advocate of direct legislation, being president of the National league.

On Sunday morning, July 2, it is expected that eminent clergyman present at the conference, of whom there will be a goodly number, will fill the pulpits of the Buffalo churches, and in the aft ernoon an open meeting will be held, when addresses will be given by Professor George D. Herron, Bishop Potter, Washington Gladden and others on "The New Conscience.

On the Fourth of July it is proposed much travel at home and abroad, he is simply expanding. In this expansion addressed by the most eminent speakers practiced law in Chicago for five years there is tremendous energy given out. of the conference, and to endeavor to have the railroads centering here run

It is Incontrovertible!

The Editor of the "Christian Million," under the heading of General Notes, on "A good article will stand upon its own merits, and we may rely upon it that nothing will continue long which does not, in a more or less degree, harmonize with the state-ments which are published concerning it." Mr. Hall Caine, Author of "The Deemster," "The Manxman," "The Christian," etc., when speaking on "Criticism," recently, said: "When a thing that is advertised greatly is good it goes and goes permanently; when it is bad, it only goes for a while: the public finds it out.'

The Proprietor of

has said over and over again :-has said over and over again:

"It is a fallacy to imagine that anything will sell just because it is advertised. How many nostrums have been started with glare and snuffed out in gloom? The fact is, a man is not easily guiled a second time; and every dissatisfied purchaser does ten times more harm than one satisfied does good. Assuredly the sale of more than 6,000,000 boxes of BEECHAM'S PILLS per annum, after a public trial of half-a-century, is conclusive testimony of their popularity, superiority and proverbial worth."

Beecham's Pills have for many years been the popular

Beecham's Pills have for many years been the popular family medicine wherever the hinglish language is spoken, and they now stiml without a rival. In boxes, to cents and as cents each, at all drug stores.

FENCES AND GATES.

For Fences and Various Methods of Constructing Them.

' We endeavor to illustrate and de scribe only those that are of practical value, and in actual use. Here are some of the various modes of arranging rails for the running of stock and indicating the boundary line of farms In many sections of the country the common crooked zig-zag (sometimes called the Virginia worm) rail fence is extensively used and in consequence of the scarcity of desired material, cannot be immediately replaced by the improved board post and rail iron or stone fence. As commonly constructed with wide-spreading stakes at each corner, it occupies a strip of ground nearly a rod in width, which is far worse than useless, affording a harboring place for noxious weeds etc. Fig. 1 represents a section of a straight rail fence. The stakes are first driven in the soil from four to six inches asunder, sufficient to admit of a rail of medit-n size; a stone or block of wood a few inches in height is placed between the stakes, upon which are properly placed two or three rails; a piece of annealed wire is then placed around both stakes, the ends being well twisted together, upon which are placed rails until within a few inches of the top, when another bit of wire, a wooden pin, or a wooden cap, as most convenient, is attached.

In building this class of fence, it will be necessary to cut away with an axe a portion of each end of many rails, that they may fit closely within the stakes. In this, as well as other rail fences, the largest and heaviest rails should be reserved for the top, rendering their removal by unruly stock and high winds less easy. Keep the crooked ones in a panel by themselves, and if they are crooked it is policy to use them for stakes, or consign them to the flames; for to have a fence to please and not to provoke the intrusion of stock, use but straight rails.

When economy of rails is desired, immediately after setting the stakes cast up a ridge of earth by plowing two furrows on each side, throwing up the second furrow with a shovel, mating a ridge a foot or more in height, and not less than a foot in breadth at the top; proceed as above in the construction of the fence; sow grass seed upon the ridge. This plan saves two rails to a panel, renders the stakes more firm and less liable to heave by the action of the frost, and unruly cattle do not have the same advantage in attempting to get through or over it. In situations not liable to the prevalence of high winds, this is the fence that should be used, occupying less ground than many other kinds; and, when properly constructed, it is a substantial and neat fence.

Fig. 2, though in appearance somewhat resembling the previous one, is more expensive, and is designed especially for the use of noles or slende rails that it would be impossible to properly arrange in a fence by any other plan. To the stakes are nailed cleats, as shown, from four to seven at every set of stakes. Size of rails and purpose of fence will decide this point. A ridge of earth can be thrown up as in the previous plan, with a corresponding economy of timber.

The Potato Provokes Dyspepsia.

When a baby gets old and strong enough to take a little solid food, tents the cow is well. about the first thing prepared for the little one is mashed patato with a little gravy over it. The mother is sure that this is extremely harmless and wholesome. More danger does lurk in a Welsh rarebit, it is true, that the taste of toasted cheese would probably not be as grateful to the infant's palate, but it may be that there is more lasting harm in the patato than in the cheese The patato provokes our great national ailment, dyspepsia, and the sooner the consumption of the mealy tubers begins the sooner will the dread fangs of the dyspepsia appear. To be sure that there are some digestive organs so strong that the fortunate owners of them can eat anything any everything with impunity. The eating of potatoes will not bring dyspepsia to such as these, but even to them potatoes may be dangerous. That hideous uric acid which provokes the rheumatism and the gout, these dread diseases which attack the strong with a greater ferocity than the weak, is more surely produced by a potato diet than by any other. If these things be so, conservative and health-loving persons will not new growth under the snowbanks. need any labored argument to convince that they ought to be moderate in their use of potatoes.

the best layers are fat hens. While we believe in having fowls in good condition, we do not want them fat for egg production. The Cochin is being bred too much

Soft-shelled eggs, pigeon-sized eggs, double-yolked eggs, an egg within an egg, egg binding, apaplexy and a multitude of monstrosities, ills and troubles come from overfat hens. The great objection to the Minorcas

It proved to be just what he needed and he was soon able to eat his regular rations. Of course this amused the audience, especially the ladies, who as a general rule select a brown egg for cooking purposes, but it was explained when a gentleman arose and said that the hens laying white eggs were non-setters and of course the eggs Mr. Edmunds ate would set lightly on his stemach .-Chatauqua News' Report of Farm Meeting.

A farmer in Orange county, N. Y., last summer wrote to the editor of the Orange County Farmer that one of his cows was sick, and he feared it had tuberculosis, at the same time asking to five or six hundredweight, but will what should be done. The advice was to tell no one of the case, but keep the cow in a field by herself, where she could have good grass, plenty of pure water and shade. Give no grain, but if the tendency of the bowels is towards constipation give her some wheat bran. The advice was taken, and the Orange County Farmer tells the result.

In two or three weeks the farmer wrote that the cow seemed to be improving. This was followed by another letter, in which the improvement was positively noted, and later in the season the cow was reported cured. The Farmer adds:

We have but little, if any, doubt that this was a genuine case of tuberculosis. Dissections show that such recoveries are quite common, that cows have had tuberculosis, the tubercles have become encysted or healed over, and to all in-

Spreading Manure.

A great many farmers hesitate to draw manure and spread it on their fields as made, because they fear that what is thus spread in fall and winter will be washed away by spring floods. There is really no danger of this, except to land subject to overflow. The heaviest rains soak through the manure into the soil beneath. Very rarely if ever does this water thus manure soaked reach even to a foot beyond where the clod of manure lay. As a matter of fact, unfermented manure has little fertility that is in soluble form. There is reason for farmers to delay drawing away their manure piles if they are waiting for them to ferment. This fermented manure has plant food immediately available. When it is put on grass land in winter, it shows with the first warm days of spring in the brighter green of the grass to which it is applied. In winters when there is very heavy snowfall the application of fermented manure late in fall will start Gluten meal is a cheap and excellent food for cows, but should be fed warn equal parts of cottonseed meal. Occasionally cornmeal may be substituted tor the cottonseed meal. Linseed meal at least three times a week will be found excellent as a change in the diet.

The churn will always churn, says a writer, if the milk and cream have been properly handled up to churning time. > Some cows will not give down except when they are eating a palatable mess. It is a bad Labit to get them into and they should be trained differently. If but one or two cows are milked it is not inconvenient to feed again at milking time but with a herd it is very troublesome.

> The majority of failures in trying to keep a large number of chickens on the farm is caused by allowing them to run together in large flocks during the day, and to crowd in large numbers together on the roosts. Crowding, bad ventilation and uncleanliness are causes of loss almost wholly.

> Granting the value of intelligent breeding, it is nevertheless true that herieditary laws do not overpower all other laws. Sorting is a positive necesof beef or for the dairy. Progress is only possible by selection.

than any of the large breeds. The kinds of hogs that will attain 250 to 280 pounds weight in nine months are better than those which will run up require two full years to do it in.

This is the turkey-killing season, and while the largest turkeys are usually most salable, it is well for those who intend to continue breeding to save two or more of the old turkeys a second and even a third year. Such turkeys will produce stronger and thriftier chicks. less likely to be tender and injured by wet weather. The wild turkeys always mate with the old and strong gobblers. and in this way they attain greater hardiness than has our domestic fowl.

There are very few farmers who would burn corn, oats or other grains in a stove as a means of keeping stock warm in winter. They do practically much the same thing when they allow domestic animals to be exposed to cold blasts, and feed heavily with grain to keep them warm. The grain is then burned just as truly as if it were put in Just Received at the BEE HIVE STORE a furnace. The only advantage of the grain fed is that it is consumed inside the animal, and the heat it furnishes is less subject to waste.

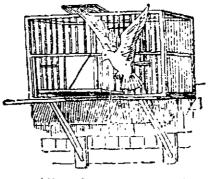

Cows will founder the same as horses from being overfed with some food which cannot readily be digested. As it sours in their stomachs cows will show the characteristic lameness which results in horses when they are overfed with anything. Of course as digestion is interrupted, the animal becomes fevcrish and her milk flow ceases. It will take several days of careful feeding to: put a foundered cow in good condition place and given all the water she will drink, and light, easily-digested food in small quantities until digestion is restored to its normal condition.

Pig manure is usually made from have so much nitrogenous matter as manure from the horse. Hence it is slow to heat, while horse manure ferments too rapidly, and is apt to firefang. It is a good plan to mix pig and: horse manure together. This can be Cone without trouble if the horses are fed whole oats and pigs are allowed to root over the manure pile as it is thrown from the stable. Where bedding is scarce the budding which has been wet by horses after drying may be used as bedding for pigs. But while it is so used the pigs will be very careful not to mix their own excrement

The portable mills for grinding grain run by horse or steam ; ower can generally be afforded by farmers who are too far from mill to make it convenient for they cannot, which prevents it being done just the same. The Pigeon Cote.

A few pigeons can be kept on any farm, and without any expense whatever. There are instances where quite a handsome sum of money is realized by the women folk from this source. Almost the entire expense is embraced in providing the pigeon cote, for they same that is reasonable. Don't try to breed rapidly and are naturally no expense whatever. There is always a market for squabs, and for those who live near cities the prices that are realized are good.

Dairying Ahead.

Dairy products have been at a low ebb, but all signs point to a revival in prices, and in spite of the fact that there is not a large margin between cost of production and selling price I don't know of anything upon the farm which brings a more sure profit even though a small one, while at the same time utilizing material which Where the cheapest production or could not be turned into money by any meat is desired a small breed of hogs other means than the cow. May be Reduced to One Cent.

The enormous increase in the number of letters carried in the United States mails makes it certain that the rate of postage must eventually be reduced to one cent an ounce. The President who succeeds in getting such a measure through Congress will hold a high place in the esteem of the people, but no higher than the esteem in which the people hold Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This medicine has an unequalled record for curing the sickness of mankind It gets at the starting point of diseases by acting upon the stomach direct, helping that important organ in its duty of digesting food. It makes good appetite, allays nervousness, stimulates the kidneys and makes the run-down man or woman feel like a new person. Try it. Notice to Physicians.
